

I fear that the extreme right wing of the Republican Party will do irrevocable damage to the democratic process. It is my fervent hope and prayer that sanity and wisdom will prevail in this presidential election and that voters will send a clear message to those who would divide us that we are a UNITED States of America. Most Sincerely, Becky Falter